Fluorspar Could Spark Economy if Imports Reduced

I AM IN DEFINITE ACCORD with the subject matter of a letter I received yesterday from Bill Johnson of 204 East Church street in Harrisburg.

It deals with the high demand for fluorspar in general and the light demand for Hardin county fluorspar in particular because of the great imports from Mexico. This newspaper has carried stories which touched upon this problem but Bill's letter brings out the picture more completely. Here is what he has to say:

Dear Tim:

You are to be congratulated on your efforts to back the "bring industry in" program, and I, like the rest of the town, sincerely hope for successful results.

In addition, I have another hopeful thought I wish something could be done about, which could affect Harrisburg, Saline and Hardin counties on a large scale economically.

Bringing industry in is a very good thing, but within our present possessions are valuable resources that could possibly exceed even greater hopes with the needed help and corrections.

With so much talk about unemployment both locally and nationally, productions going down, politicians crying for the government to act on our economy, there is yet one thing going up — THE DEMAND FOR FLUORSPAR!

In the past three years the uses for fluorspar have tripled and more recently, the demand for use in fuel for launching missiles (Nov. 7th Hardin County Independent). I quote:

"We are entering upon an age of pure chemical propellants made up of a base fuel, like the publicized boron-hydrogen compound, plus a high potency oxidizer like fluorine."

Fluorine is derived from fluorspar. In Friday night's Register you carried a story "Fluorspar Consumption at All-Time High," which probably sounded very good to the Officers Re-Elected at Meeting Of Saline County Soil Board

Tentative Budget Prepared for District Activities

The board of directors of the Saline County Soil Conservation district organized for 1958 at the regular monthly board meeting held last night at the Harrisburg city hall, with all of last year's officers being re-elected.

The officers are A. A. Gholson of Rector township, president and chairman of the board; Ewell Harris of Galatia township vice-president; and Paul Halbersleben of Harrisburg, secretary-treasurer.

Other directors and associates present were Carl Vance of Carrier Mills, Cecil Nelson of Independence, Lowell Wise of Cottage and R. L. Morris of Raleigh.

Requests to become co-operators with the district were reviewed and accepted by the board for Harry and Bill Powell, Gratton Hill, James Richey, V. R. Lovellette, James and Emil Choisser and James L. Wintizer

The program of special activities for 1958 were discussed and a tentative budget was prepared which provides for money to be used as needed in different activities. These activities and the amount budgeted:

Soil Conservation essay contest $125, farm tours $15, Soil Stewardship Week activities $15 inter-agency meeting and program $25, advisory committee dinner and program $50, annual meeting speaker and miscellaneous expenses $75, stamps, stationery and office supplies $125 dues to state and national associations $10, purchase of office and field equipment $175. Activities for which there was no money budgeted include assisting civic clubs with rural-urban activities, activities with businessmen and the bankers association meeting with earth moving contractors and Saline River drainage project.

The tentative budget, subject to revision, totals $625. Funds to operate come largely from contributions from individuals, organizations and local government departments. The board expressed its gratitude to all who have contributed.

Committees were named from board members to have the responsibility for formulating the detailed plans for the work involved in connection with the special activities.

Annual World Day of Prayer at First Methodist Church Feb. 21

By Miss Bess Pemberton

Harrisburg observance of the annual World Day of Prayer, planned by the local board of church women at a meeting in the First Methodist church Monday evening, will be held in the sanctuary of the church at 7 p. m. Feb. 21. Mrs. John Schwartz, chairman of the committee, presided at the planning meeting and others attending were Miss Beulah Lievers, Miss Alta Johnson, Mrs. Beulah Yarber, Mrs. L. B. Kimmel, Mrs. Capitola Melton and Miss Bess Pemberton.

The worship service for 1958 will be centered around four prayers obtained by a committee of Melbourne, Australia, church women from Nomadic tribesmen in the central part of Australia. Although the women who voiced the prayers could not read or write, they have been taught the Christian gospel. It was the Melbourne committee's duty to prepare the interdenominational service for the World Day of Prayer and it found in the supplications of these simple people the outcry of all women for universal goodwill among men. These Nomadic women have asked God's love for people of all of the places of the earth.

Service in Each Country

The prayer composed by Malangana of Milingimbi poetically declares, "You know, God, that a very small leaf on the ground can mean that big roots are underneath, so we pray that even a little light touching the heart, may mean that men and women will know of a very great love coming from You, for them. We pray that this light and love will grow everywhere until everyone will hear Your story of Your way."

Each year the worship service, which will be said in some 60 languages and in more than 1,000 dialects this year, from the Tonga islands to the bleak Aleutians, comes from a different country

The choice for last year's program was prophetic. The com-

Eldorado Youth Committed; One Given Probation

One Eldorado youth today was slated to be taken to the St. Charles School for Boys and another has been given probation as the result of their confessing to stealing a huge quantity of gasoline.

James Grant, 16, who has been in trouble on numerous occasions, was headed for St. Charles. Papers of commitment already have been prepared in the office of State's Attorney Robert V. Wilson.

Placed on probation by County Judge Trafton Dennis was Shannon Pryor, 19, who has been in no previous trouble.

Sheriff William T. Barrett said the boys had confessed to the following:

They stole six ten-gallon cream cans from Hill's grocery at Galatia, which they took with a 16 gallon metal beer keg and a five-gallon army gasoline can to the Dr. Kane farm north of Galatia There they filled all the containers with gasoline. They took two of the ten gallon cans to a spot on Route 142 a mile north of Eldorado and hid them in a ditch then took the remainder to a place on Route 142 south of Eldorado and hid it.

Barrett said the sheriff's office learned of the gasoline that was hidden south of Eldorado and he and his deputies hid out Monday night, hoping to catch those who had concealed it. The officers left after midnight but got a call about 3 a. m. which said that someone was around the gasoline. Deputy Sheriff Charles Donelson, who lives in Eldorado, got to the scene in time to catch the boys before they got away.

Barrett also said that the boys had stolen gasoline from a gasoline transport parked at Main and Sloan streets in Harrisburg.

FCC Member Says He Has Informed Hoover He Will Cooperate with the FBI

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal Communications Commissioner Richard A. Mack requested an early chance today to appear before House investigators and answer the "unsubstantiated charges, accusations, innuendoes and distortions so recklessly made" against him.

Mack, accused of accepting $2,650 in a contested television channel case, said in response to a question that he had no thought of resigning.

Mack made public a brief letter he sent to Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) of a House investigating subcommittee asking for a chance to present his side.

The charges were made against Mack Thursday by Bernard Schwartz, ousted chief counsel for the subcommittee.

"I am confident that when all the facts are presented to your committee, you will conclude that the accusations of Bernard Schwartz are without foundation," Mack told Harris.

Mack requested "an early opportunity to appear before your committee and answer the unsubstantiated charges, accusations, innuendos and distortions so recklessly made by Bernard Schwartz."

Hearings Resume Monday

Mack said he informed the office of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover this morning that he would cooperate with the FBI "at any time in every way possible."

The FBI was ordered by Atty Gen. William P. Rogers Thursday to investigate the case.

Just before Mack's letter was released, he arrived at his FCC office and posed smiling for photographers.

"Is there any thought of your resigning?" a reporter asked.

"No sir," Mack replied.

In response to another question, Mack said he did not know yet when he would be called to testify before the subcommittee.

Harris indicated his subcommittee might meet sometime during the day in closed session to discuss calling Mack and other future witnesses.

Public hearings resume Monday.

Harris said his group is cooperating with the FBI.

Subcommitteeman Rep. John Bell Williams (D-Miss.) said if the "shocking" allegations against Mack are proven, "they demand action by the committee and the executive branch." Williams, who moved to fire the man who produced the charges—former subcommittee chief counsel Bernard Schwartz—said he presumed Mack "is subject to the criminal code."

Government legal experts said President Eisenhower had the power to fire a Federal Communications commissioner.

Administration Seeks to Remove Brakes On Public Works To Boost U. S. Economy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration today sought to remove brakes on public works spending in order to bulwark the national economy against depression.

The government disclosed it is rechecking limitations in the huge federal superhighway program which will require cutting future expenditures. It also revealed it has lifted the spending ceiling on Army Engineers' public works projects.

The disclosures came amid demands from Democratic governors and senators for immediate expansion of federal public works programs to help pull the country out of its business slump.

Among the developments:

—Gov. Averell Harriman of New York and Democratic chief executives of 10 other northern and western states demanded that President Eisenhower boost public works spending to pump new money into the economy.

—In a joint telegram to the President they also called for easier credit, "realistic" federal standards of unemployment compensation, higher farm price supports and—as a last resort—tax cuts for low income families.

—Speaker Sam Rayburn announced that Democratic congressional leaders would "consider" a possible tax cut this year as an anti-recession measure.

—Several Senate Democrats attacked the administration's newly announced two-billion-dollar post office construction and renovation program. Charging the plan was "grossly inadequate" and "political trickery," they demanded an immediate start on a far-reaching public works program.

—Sen. Ralph E. Flanders (R-Vt.) said the President's post office proposal was good, but accelerated highway building would be the best way to bridge the gap before business starts to pick up.

Truman—A Self Portrait

Editorial — BY BRUCE BIOSSAT

Former President Harry S. Truman talking in his usual pungent, peppery, brutally frank style of his days at the center of history is the stuff historians' dreams are made of.

That's how it was for a solid hour the other day when that able CBS news team, Edward R. Murrow and Fred S. Friendly, put the TV cameras on Mr. Truman and just let him go.

As a matter of fact, the hour was merely a judicious sampling of some eight hours of Truman commentary placed on film. The rest will be held until after his death. If what we heard was a measure, the other seven hours of film may burst spontaneously into flame before it can be released.

The document was intensely human because Mr. Truman is. He is amazingly direct in his answers, he speaks so simply that his impact is often powerful and almost universal, and he can be immensely funny.

His command of history is prodigious, and his talent for near total recall of events notable, though there would seem to be times when he sacrifices accuracy for speed.

The steady glare of the camera naturally brings out the flaws—the cockiness and smugness that displaced the old humility, the inability to concede major error in office.

But that only added to the value of this revealing portrait. Here, talking over the back fence, was the man who had suddenly catapulted into the awesome responsibility of a wartime presidency by the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1945.

This then humble Missourian, only a few months before a modestly celebrated senator, found himself managing the closing chapters of World War II, deciding to drop the atom bomb, wrestling with the wrenching transition to peace and facing with shock the ruthless opening offensives of the Soviet Cold War.

At its early pitch, that war broke into shooting conflict in Korea Mr. Truman says flatly the decision to send American forces there to stem the Communist tide was his toughest as president.

Firing Gen. Douglas MacArthur at the height of the battle he found easier, though he says he weighed the matter longer and sought more expert advice than many imagined at the time (1951).

No one knows what future historians will make of all this. But listening to it and the rest to come, they won't have much trouble detecting Harry Truman's attitudes and opinions. Nor his admirable conviction that "the most honorable title that can be given a man is to say that he is just a politician."

Mr. Truman seems to have earned that title. Judges yet unborn will decide whether he was also a statesman.

"If You Need Some Extra Time, You May Have It"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Speaker Rayburn Has Wanted To Kill The Probe He Started; Sam's Nephew Is Slightly Involved Re FCC Expense Accounts But Otherwise Has Fine Record; Rayburn Fumes Against Flyspecks.

WASHINGTON. — A proud old man with a great record of serving the United States and with no children of his own is one of the factors behind the abortive frustration of the Congressional committee supposed to probe governmental agencies, but which of late has concentrated on investigating its own eager-beaver ex-counsel, Dr. Bernard Schwartz.

The old man is Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, who loves his two nephews as his own sons.

One nephew is Commissioner Robert Bartley, whose name has cropped up in the probe of the probe of the Federal Communications Commission. The other is Tom Rayburn, who works for the General Services Administration.

The first nephew is the son of Sam's sister and hostess, Mrs. S. E. Bartley, who is extremely close to the Speaker. When the Speaker got Bartley a job with the Federal Communications Commission, he gave him a fatherly lecture on upholding the public interest, admonished him to serve the people, never dishonor the family name.

Speaker Rayburn himself has a great record, to which this column has frequently paid tribute. He was author of the bill which gave birth to the Federal Communications Commission. He also authored most of the independent agencies in Washington. Sam has probably served the American people more constructively than any other man now in Washington. He has a record to be proud of and he wanted his nephews to live up to the name.

HOW THE PROBE STARTED

In fact, it was Sam's nephew Commissioner Bartley, who really inspired the present investigation which his uncle has recently been trying to soft-pedal. Bartley, sitting as he did on the inside of the FCC, saw the White House pull wires to influence the disposal of priceless TV licenses to big corporations, big magazine chains, big newspaper, and to Ambassador Jock Whitney in London, who now controls the New York Herald Tribune. Bartley, rebellious at this wire-pulling and concentration of power, took these facts to his uncle, the Speaker.

The Speaker in turn made an impassioned plea to the House of Representatives to vote $250,000 to investigate the independent agencies.

Today, however, the investigation which Sam started has backfired and he has been trying to divert it to other channels. For in the expense accounts which Dr. Schwartz found, there was round $200 paid to Sam's nephew by the Radio-TV industry for travel expenses.

Actually this was chicken feed compared with the wining and dining of other commissioners by TV station owners. Bartley went to a couple of meetings of the Association of Radio and TV Broadcasters, expenses paid, but he did not bask in the British Bahamas as the guest of a TV station owner for six days, or ride around in the owner's private planes, as did Chairman John Doerfer.

Actually, Commissioner Bartley has an excellent record. In case after case, he has dissented from the other commissioners, has voted against awarding TV licenses to big business and big magazine publishers. His record is one which does justice to the Rayburn name.

However, the $200 expense money got his uncle worried. He saw his nephew being smeared on what he called "flyspecks." Backed into a corner, the tough old veteran came out fighting. He has been trying to hamstring the very investigation which he started.

THROTTLE-HOLD

Normally, the subcommittee chairman, conscientious Morgan Moulder of Missouri, would have issued subpoenas and handled all the work of the investigation. Instead, Sam's close friend, Oren Harris of Arkansas, a better friend of the gas-oil-industry, and the full-committee chairman, kept a throttle-hold on almost every detail, reserved the right to okay the hiring of staff, and himself picked Dr. Schwartz, a Republican, as counsel. Significantly, the White House also checked on Schwartz. It is highly unusual to have the executive branch of the government consult regarding a committee appointed to investigate the executive branch, but this was done.

When it came time to subpoena records from the FCC, Harris didn't want to sign subpoenas, but finally agreed to send a letter "requesting" certain records. This was where Speaker Sam Rayburn first intervened. His nephew, Commissioner Bartley, would have received one of the letters.

The Speaker summoned Harris and Moulder to his private sanctum off the House floor. His bald dome looked as if it had been overexposed to the Texas sun. It was red with fury. In blistering tones, he told the two chairmen he was tired of the way their committee was searching for "flyspecks."

What he meant by "flyspecks," Rayburn made clear, was the misconduct of the individual commissioners. He wanted neither subpoenas nor letters sent to the commissioners. As a result, the investigators were barred from searching the records of FCC commissioners whose conduct, Comptroller General Joseph Campbell has testified, appears to be a violation of the law.

Earlier, Rayburn also stopped the committee from releasing a confidential staff memo detailing the charges against the commissioners. After the memo was printed in this column and later the New York Times, the committee held a closed-door meeting to decide whether to release it to all the press.

Harris argued they would be a laughing stock if they tried to keep a memo confidential that had already been widely published. Then he got a call from Speaker Rayburn. Harris came back and reversed himself 180 degrees. As a result, the memo though widely published, is still stamped "confidential."

Rock Hudson, Kim Novak Voted Boxoffice Champs In Poll of Film Exhibitors

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Moviemakers, suffering the worst financial doldrums in film history learned from theater owners today they could be back in the chips by co-starring Rock Hudson and Kim Novak in all their pictures.

Hudson and Kim were voted box-office champs in a nationwide poll of exhibitors by Box Office magazine, a movie trade journal.

Neither star has drawn rave reviews for acting ability, nor have they ever appeared together in a film. Chances are slim they ever will, as long as Kim is under contract to Columbia, and Hudson is with Universal-International.

In the box office poll popularity, magazine covers and talent weren't considered. The stars were judged on their ability to bring in loot.

Award May Be Gold

No loving cups are passed out to the winners. But a suitable award might be a sackful of gold nuggets. To heck with artistic triumphs, say theater owners, they lose money. The pretty girls are the ones who pay off in cash.

In almost every case screen heroes outdrew glamour girls by a wide margin—and there wasn't a homely winner in the lot.

Following Hudson among the top dozen money-makers were William Holden, Cary Grant, Frank Sinatra, Gary Cooper, Marlon Brando, James Stewart, Burt Lancaster, Glenn Ford, Yul Brynner, Clark Gable and John Wayne.

Runners-up to Kim, who was unplaced two years ago, were Doris Day, Deborah Kerr, Elizabeth Taylor, Audrey Hepburn, Debbie Reynolds, June Allyson, Ingrid Bergman, Ava Gardner, Susan Hayward, Marilyn Monroe and Dorothy Malone.

An odd note: La Monr didn't have a picture in release last year.

Hudson Replaces Holden

Hudson, tenth last year, lifted the crown from Bill Holden. Kim on the other hand, also topped last year's standings.

Back on the list after an absence of nine years was Ingrid Bergman, thanks to her role in 'Anastasia"—which won her an Academy Award Oscar.

Newcomers to the poll were Brynner and Dorothy Malone. Grace Kelly, sixth in 1955, made no pictures and disappeared from the list. Humphrey Bogart, who died a year ago, was 12th in the 1956 poll.

Brando, number 2 last year, dropped back to the 6th spot, and John Wayne, a regular for the past eight years, skidded from 4th to 12th.

All-time champ is Gary Cooper, a consistent winner since 1936. Gable is another long - standing boxoffice king.

Both were on the 1936 poll which included Shirley Temple (Number 1), William Powell, Myrna Loy, Paul Muni, Spencer Tracy, Jeanette MacDonald, Claudette Colbert, Robert Taylor, Ronald Coleman and Sonja Henie.

FOUR POULTRY PARTIES IN MARCH

Leota and Harold are going to have to join the "Party of the Month Club," because they are in the partying mood and why shouldn't they be? In the worst blizzard of the year, 90 turned out for their Hog Raiser's party on Feb. 6th. Two came from as far away as Anna.

In March four parties for poultry raisers will be held. Leslie Hartwell, Rt. 1, Harrisburg, should be a special guest at one of these parties. He kept "tract" of 145 white leghorn hens and in one month he gathered 3,112 eggs from this flock. His eggs are the kind that sell to Carter's for hatchery purposes. You should get the dates of those March poultry parties because they are going to enable you to get the right dope on starting your chicks with Purina Chick Starter and keeping them in peak condition to pay you for your trouble come time for fried chicken and selling eggs.

Poor Piggies! They Had No Purina Heat Lamp

One farmer tells us he lost 16 of his 36 pigs because he failed to get a Purina heat lamp for his baby pigs. They froze to death. A heat lamp would have dried them off and saved their lives.

Marlo Wasson, whose hogs are fed on Purina chows, sold 12, which at four months and 25 days old averaged weighing 204 pounds each when they got on the scales at the St. Louis market.

Turner's Pigs Average 218 At Market

James Turner, Stonefort, whose Purebred Yorkshire pigs we mentioned a month ago, were five months and six days old when he sold them and they averaged 218 pounds. He is a Purina Chow customer who watches his pig expenses closely and on the purina program they averaged a two pound gain per day.

Here is the picture we took of some of the pigs and Mr. Turner's brother Ed.

Your Income Tax

Sale of Personal Residence

H. J. White, Director of the Internal Revenue Service for this district today explained the Federal income tax rules applying to the sale of a personal residence.

The general rules that the Federal tax law requires you to report any profit from the sale of your residence, or any other item of personal property such as your automobile, furniture, securities or real estate. (On the other hand, you are not allowed to deduct any loss from the sale of your home or other personal asset which was not held for the purpose of producing income.)

There is, however, a special rule which allows you to defer paying a tax if you sell your residence at a gain and within one year after (or before) the sale you buy and occupy another residence costing as much or more than the sales proceeds of the old residence. The same rule applies, if instead of buying, you begin construction of a new home and occupy it within 18 months after the sale of the old.

If the sales proceeds (adjusted sales price) of your old residence exceeds the cost of your new residence, the gain on the sale is taxable to the extent of the excess. For example, if you paid $10,000 for your old residence sold it for $15,000, and invested only $13,000 in a new one, you would pay tax on a gain of $2,000 ($15,000 minus $13,000).

The sales proceeds (or adjusted sales price) is computed by deducting any sales commissions and the expenses of redecorating and fixing-up the property for sale. The fixing-up expenses must be for work performed during the 90-day period ending on the day on which a contract to sell is entered into, and must be paid within 30 days after the date of sale.

If you sold your residence during 1957, you must report the details on separate Schedule D of Form 1040. If the period for replacement has passed, or if you do not intend to replace, report any profit and pay any tax due on your 1957 return. If you have acquired a new home, enter in column (h) of Schedule D only the amount of taxable gain, if any, and attach a statement showing the purchase price, date of purchase, and date of occupancy.

If you have decided to replace, but have not done so, or if you are undecided, report the sale on Schedule D and enter "None" in column (h). If you later replace within the time limit, you must advise your District Director of Internal Revenue, giving full details. If you decide not to replace, or if the time allowed has passed without replacement, you must file an amended return for the year you made the sale and pay any tax due on your profit. Since any additional tax due will bear interest from the original due date of your return until paid, you should file the amended return for the year of sale as promptly as possible.

Mr. White advised taxpayers who have questions concerning the tax rules applying to the sale of their home or any other matter on their Federal income tax return for 1957 to telephone or visit the local office of the Internal Revenue Service. The local office may be reached by telephone CL 3-7993. The address of the local office is 111 1-2 North Main, Harrisburg.

Drive Monday Seek to Close SVDA Fund

The fund raising campaign in Carrier Mills for the Saline Valley Development Association is lagging somewhat, Chairman Freeman O'Keefe reported today.

"We want to close out the campaign by Monday," Mr. O'Keefe declared and urged everyone in Carrier Mills to be ready to attribute to the SDVA when approached by a committee member.

The campaign is being spearheaded in Carrier Mills by the Lions club and contributions will be accepted and a receipt issued by any member of the club. However, the committee in charge is composed of Chairman O'Keefe, Morse Hill and A. J. Henshaw.

The campaign is to raise funds for the operations of SDVA, plus money to pay expenses involved in the SDVA having an exhibit at the National Industrial Development Exposition in New York during the month of June.

The SDVA and the exhibit is a cooperative affair, with all communities in both Saline and Gallatin counties participating.

"Carrier Mills must share the expenses of this worthwhile project and everyone is urged to help. We want to have the work completed by the time of the next meeting of the Lions club—Monday, February 17," Mr. O'Keefe stated.

OF EGGS AND BASKETS. More and more Americans are re-examining the old saw about not putting all their eggs in one basket — at least, as it applies to saving money. Of course life insurance and U. S. But when it comes to ready cash reserves, more and more savers are concluding that the best "basket" for those is the bank. High School Cage Play of Williams Will End Tonight

Lewis Williams

The high school basketball career of Lewis Williams will come to a close tonight.

Williams, three-year veteran on the Carrier Mills high school varsity, will observe his 20th birthday Feb. 18 and will not be eligible for further high school athletics. The Wildcats are playing at Norris City tonight and are not scheduled to play again until Friday, a couple of days after Williams' birthday.

Williams, not the showy, spectacular type player, is a dependable performer that catches the eye of coaches much quicker than the fans.

He gets his share of rebounds by being in position rather than by outjumping the opponent, is a good floor man and comes through with clutch points.

This season he has scored at a 7-per-game clip, with 128 points in 18 games.

Williams has started few games this season, but usually is in action before the game has progressed far. He has been the "sixth starter," ready to go in at any position at any time.

A common saying in athletics is that a team is no stronger than its bench." Williams has given Carrier Mills a strong bench.

Matter of FACT

Death Valley, Calif., a natural valley about 130 miles long and from three to 18 miles wide, gets its name from a group of gold seekers who were on their way west in 1849. They took a short cut through the valley, which ranges to about 280 feet below sea level, and were unable to find their way out before several of them died of starvation and thirst.

In memory of our daughter Margaret Fay Furlong, who departed this life 6 years ago:
"Sometimes it seems so long ago,
Since God called you away,
And then sometimes it seems to us
It was only yesterday.

We miss you so when roses bloom,
And when the leaves turn in the fall.
But Darling when we miss you most
When snow flakes start to fall.

We had you such a little while,
But we cherished every day
And it is so hard to understand
Why He took you away.

The roses bloom and then they die,
The snow flakes melt away,
But dear the love we had for you
Lives with us from day to day."
Sadly missed by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Furlong, Elgin, Ill. 193-1

In Memoriam

In loving memory of T-Sgt. William Horvath, who died in the service of his country thirteen years ago, Feb. 14, 1945.
We often sit and think of you,
And wonder how you died,
No one you loved was near your side,
To hear your last faint sigh.
The blow was hard, the shock severe,
Although we felt your death was near
Only those who have lost can tell
The pain of parting without fare well.
Sadly missed by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Horvath, and his sister and families. *193-1

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D. D.
(Written for NEA Service)

Going to church has become an accepted practice by millions of Americans. Although this regular attendance helps each worshipper prepare to live a better life, we cannot be satisfied with his single objective.

Since our lives are fuller for the experience, we ought to urge others to share our benefits. Thousands of other folk seldom go to church. It is up to those who have learned to walk with God to invite others to go to worship with them.

A good rule for us to follow would be to always take a friend, a neighbor or even a stranger with us. Many would never take the initiative to go to church alone. Many would never meet God nor know of His love and peace if they were not invited by someone else. We must be the ones to give the invitation.

AT THE ORPHEUM—Gia Scala and Glenn Ford are the young lovers in MGM's CinemaScope and color feature, "Don't Go Near the Water," to show at the Orpheum tonight, Saturday and Sunday.

THE STORY: When Capt. Judson Dillon's pack train arrives at the ranch, Ward Sebastian tells the Army officer that Provo Holt, who is in charge of the train, is a renegade and as soon as the mules are unpacked, Holt must move out. Privately Sebastian is resolved that Yance McCloud will go with Holt.

Obstensibly, they were only idly watching the unpacking chore. In reality they centered a keen interest on every animal in Provo Holt's string. Presently, Ward Sebastian's glance centered on a certain mule just relieved of its burden, an animal which stood a little larger than the rest and which had a split ear.

"Take a look at the big one yonder, Sam. Anything about that one strike you familiar?"

"I suspect there's lots of tall mules with a split-off ear, scattered across the world," answered Sam. "But I doubt any except this one would show a line of white hair on a brown hide, in that exact spot on the point of the near shoulder. I remember Andy Prescott telling me that white hair marked an old snag scar. So, while I ain't a gamblin' man, if I had $10, I'd bet that particular jughead was once lead animal in Andy's string. And if I had another 10, I'd bet the chunky one Yance McCloud's workin' on right now, was more than once rode by Andy Prescott."

"If you didn't take those bets, I would," Sebastian said thinly. "Sam, whue you and I may be dead sure, we can't do much about proving it to others. More than once I tried to get Andy to brand out his whole string. But you know how he was."

The unpacking went on, and presently Holt's mules were grouped apart under empty saw-buck saddles. Captain Dillon spoke briefly with Holt, who turned, spat, and stared stonily at Ward Sebastian. Meeting the look, Sebastian moved forward and spoke curtly.

"Don't ever show here again, Holt. Not for any reason or under any pretense. From now on, stay off my land! Yance, that goes for you, too. You keep the wrong kind of company.'

Darkly sullen, Yance McCloud said, "I've heard talk that Kitty's here at this ranch. I want to see her."

Sebastian eyed him bleakly. "Not today, Yance. Far as I'm concerned, you've just about run out your string. You've never brought your sister anything but misery and trouble. Knowing Kitty, I know she's not wanting to see you just now. Maybe if you go off somewhere, get yourself an honest job and prove yourself a man, she might feel different. When you've done all that, come back, and we'll talk things over."

Provo Holt had stepped into his saddle and was beginning to stir his mules into movement. But before reining completely away he twisted in his saddle and once more laid his pale, cold, always-hating glance on Ward Sebastian.

"So far," he droned, "you've always managed to pick your spots But one of these days, Sebastian, I'll pick mine!"

"Like the one picked for Andy Prescott on the Fandango Pass trail maybe?" charged Sebastian swiftly. "Or the one Jack Ruby tried for me by Sheet Iron?"

Ward Sebastian spent the balance of the day in his saddle, riding a wide sweep to the east and south of headquarters.

As he rode, he made rough count, finding satisfaction in the figures in spite of known losses It had been a long, slow haul, building a herd from the frugal start his father had made, but the increase had been steady.

With the gray afternoon running out, he pulled rein on the crest of one of the higher rims, sagged weight in a stirrup and laid a speculative, soberly frowning glance across the far miles to the north east where, dim in the fading light, a heavy ridge pushed up its blunt nosed bulk.

Well he knew what that particular ridge looked down on. East of it lay the heart of the lake, while not more than a long rifle shot from the blunt southern point, a savage tangle of lava country began, reaching far south and fanning wide to the west and the east. And in the lavas were gathered all the children of old Schronchin, the wise and patient one who, down across the long and wicked years had asked the white man only for peace and had instead been given oppression.

In the lavas now waited Kentipoos—Captain Jack—direct son of Schonchin, with his Modoc brothers. A lost people, who had sent up their prayer smokes, who had listened to their gods, and who were resigned and ready. If their spirits must retreat into the everlasting sunset, then they would go as free spirits. And with them they would take the ghosts of many white men, to carry their burdens for them.

By the time Sebastian reached home it was full dark. He met and passed a sentry's challenge and then it was Sam Lester waiting for him.

"The womenfolks have kinda laid it on extra special for supper and I got orders to send you in as soon as you showed."

Pausing at the bunkhouse long enough to wash up, Sebastian went into the ranch house. They were gathered about the table in the big kitchen Connie and Phil Ashland Major Ashland and Capt. Judson Dillon Mrs. Gayle and Kitty Dutra were busy at the stove.

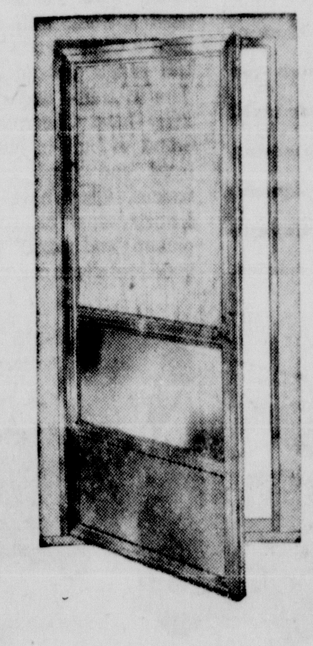

Major Ashland exclaimed with relief. "Now I feel a little less like a confounded interloper."

House Committee Approves Interior Department Funds Only Slightly Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)— The House Appropriations Committee today approved almost intact a slice of President Eisenhower's budget — reflecting a slackoff in the congressional economy drive.

The committee sent to the floor for action next week a $413,145,000 bill, carrying 99.7 per cent of the funds requested by Eisenhower to operate the Interior Department and related agencies in the fiscal year starting July 1. The overall reduction amounted to only $1,339,000.

That compares with last year when the President requested about 101 million dollars more for the same agencies and the committee chopped off 60 million dollars.

In approving the measure today the committee made it clear that it felt the President had gone too far this year with some of his proposals for economies in non-defense spending.

It recommended Congress increase the President's budget by $800,000 for the Bureau of Indian Affairs to build urgently needed schools for Indian children; by $500,000 for forest and land management employe housing; and by $651,000 for forest roads and trails. The committee said 8,000 Indian children were without school facilities.

However, the three proposed increases were more than offset by other committee-voted reductions. The group thumbed down entirely $300,000 requested to acquire land for Superior National Forest and $1,120,000 for land acquisition by the National Capital Planning Commission to add to the District of Columbia's park, parkway and playground system.

The bill did not include funds for the Interior Department's construction of reclamation projects which are carried separately in a public works money bill to be drafted later. A number of lawmakers from both parties have announced they will seek more funds for these projects than recommended in the budget.

Thus, prospects are the Congress will wind up increasing the President's $73,900,000,000 spending budget, particularly in view of the drive underway to step up defense spending and to offset the business slump with more government spending.

"THE WISE ARE INSTRUCTED BY REASON"

There is no good reason why anyone should entrust their health to untrained people. Yet some unthinking persons thoughtlessly purchase vitamins from door-to-door salesmen, usually opportunists who are here today and gone tomorrow.

The prices they charge offer no savings and the firm they represent are not the dependable pharmaceutical manufacturers respected by the medical world.

About Town And Country

reader, but there is certainly a back-stabbing damper in the last paragraph — "Whether the domestic fluorspar operators will be able to participate in this increasing commercial market for fluorspar depends on their ability to survive the crushing onslaught of HIGH FOREIGN IMPORTS OF FLUORSPAR."

To quote a Hardin Co. Independent Nov. 14th article: Imports of fluorspar exceeded U. S. production in 1956-57: 485,000 tons of imports against 330,000 of domestic production in 1956."

I certainly have nothing against our Mexican neighbor, but when a good neighbor policy leaves your home family in want and need, then I think the policy is out of balance. With the increasing demand, fluorspar mines in Hardin county could expand immediately to meet this need, and in expansion have need for our own Harrisburg and Saline county unemployed miners. There is, of course, considerable differences in the two mining operations; but under a sudden expansion program, an experienced miner of any kind would be a more desirable employe than one without any mining experience. While the mines would be in Hardin county, a very large percentage of their payrolls could be from Harrisburg and Saline county.

Another factor — there are undeveloped fluorspar deposits in Saline county. With a change in our imports, it could become very worthwhile to develop these. This has always been primarily a mining community, and I believe it could be again.

I think the new demands and uses developing in 1958 for fluorspar are only a beginning. If our country could fill its own demand with its own product first, I think it could eliminate a large percentage of our unemployment and be felt by every merchant in Harrisburg.

Here is a demand — and a growing one! We have the resources for this demand. We have unemployed trained labor for this demand, with only a good neighbor policy law between us and prosperity through the use of our natural resources. It seems to me we have our own answer to our own problem within our laps — or in our own backyard — if something could be done about the imports.

If this idea seems worthwhile to you, and if you have any ideas about correcting the obstacle, I certainly think successful results in that direction could spell a new kind of success to Harrisburg's economy. It could be as great a blessing to our community as the coal mines have been in the past.

Annual World Day Of Prayer February 21

mittee chose a Hungarian immigrant who, in her service, written a year before the uprising in her unhappy country, voiced a plea for world unity, which took on a tragic meaning when the Hungarian revolt came.

The Australian women travelled an aggregate of 14,000 miles to get material and to write the program for 1958.

On this World Day of Prayer, millions of people will join in the 24 hour prayer vigil and will make an offering for Christian missions at home and abroad.

Theme, Bread of Life

When dawn breaks over the international date line, the first invocation will rise from the people of Queen Salote's island kingdom, led by that popular Christian monarch. As the light spreads across the heavens, the pleas for faith, brotherhood and love will spread across Asia, Africa, Europe, the Americas and the island spaces in between.

The voices of men and women, dedicated to peace and goodwill, will be heard in 144 countries and six continents throughout the day. By nightfall they will have hushed to a whisper in the land of the midnight sun, on a speck in the Bering sea known as St. Lawrence island.

There will be no time during the 24 hours when the chain of prayer will be broken. The theme for the day will be "The Bread of Life." In every tongue men and women everywhere will ask for bread for those who hunger physically and spiritually. Bread for the souls of men in the form of mercy, grace and divine fellowship. Bread for those who are starved for love and understanding and bread for the lonely ones, the strangers and the refugees.

Throughout the United States where the World Day of Prayer came into being in 1887, the service will be heard in great cathedrals, tiny roadside chapels as well as in shops, schools, colleges, hospitals, factories and fields.

Church Bells Will Ring

In many places, traffic will come to a stop for one minute of silent prayer and the joyful bells of the churches of many faiths will ring in unison for the call to worship. Sheridan, Wyoming, bells will ring during several separate 15 minute periods for services held in the veterans hospital, schools and churches. Special homage will be paid to the Indians and to the "Lord's Prayer" expressed in their sign language.

Oak Park takes the service to hundreds of shut-ins and to meetings of all age groups and employment groups with 12 churches providing an interdenominational choir.

Dallas, Texas, people hold devotions in 50 business firms and "Sweet Hour of Prayer" is played from the top of the tallest building.

Burbank, California, broadcasts hymns over the city's loud speaker and in Collinsville, Okla., the mayor sponsors the broadcasting of religious music from the business district.

The wife of the African pastor in Rhodesia, Africa, conducts a service in the Shona dialect and the African women sing a capella.

Korean Christian churches had the service printed in their own language last year and U. S. military servicemen crowded into ten churches in Oahu, Hawaii.

Harrisburg women will take the service to three schools and distribute call to prayer literature in the hospitals. One of the women commented, "If Australian women could travel 14,000 miles to prepare the program, the people of Harrisburg should be willing to come 14 blocks to participate in the call to worship of that program."

Fresh Wave of Violence in New York Schools

Find Body of Girl, 16, Beaten and Partly Burned

NEW YORK (AP)—Senate juvenile delinquency investigators confer with top New York school officials today in the wake of fresh teen-age violence that included a daylight robbery of junior high school students.

James L. Sullivan, chief counsel for the Senate subcommittee on juvenile delinquency, scheduled an afternoon meeting with superintendent of schools William Jansen and other officials on New York's handling of violence in the schools.

The subcommittee will hold public hearings here Feb. 27 and 28.

In the latest outbreak of youthful lawlessness two Negro youths estimated to be 16 and 19 years old invaded the Macombs Junior High School in the Bronx.

Round Up Monitors

Brandishing a long knife and club, they rounded up seven fourth-floor corridor monitors, aged 12 to 14, and a 13-year-old girl. From the boys the robbers took a total of about $6 and four wristwatches. They did not rob or otherwise molest the girl. All the victims were white.

Dectives meanwhile questioned relatives and neighbors of a pretty, black-haired high school student, Lillian Mojica, 16, whose beaten and partly burned body was found in the cellar of her Manhattan home. The girl, New York-born daughter of Puerto Rican parents, had a hole in the top of her head, apparently from a severe blow. The upper part of her body was charred and her clothes were burned off.

Her brother, Richard, 15, reported the grisly find when he returned home from school and neighbors notified police.

Meanwhile the Board of Education announced that its get-tough policy under which more than 644 troublesome high school and elementary pupils have been suspended from classes since last Friday would end April 1. By that time the board expects the "intolerable" wave of violence that led to the crackdown will have been brought under control.

General Dynamics To Build Three Polaris Armed Subs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy announced today that General Dynamics Corp. at Groton, Conn., and the Mare Island Naval Shipyard, Vallejo, Calif., will build the nation's first three Polaris missile armed atomic submarines.

Two will be built by the General Dynamics Electric Boat Division at Groton. The first of these will cost between 105 and 110 million dollars, the second between 85 and 90 million.

Congress recently approved 296 million dollars in emergency funds for construction of the three, nuclear-powered submarines. The Navy hopes to build six more when funds are approved.

The 5,600-ton vessels, to be completed in 1960, will be the largest known underseas craft in the world. Each will carry a reported 16 of the 1,500-mile range Polaris missiles.

Boy, 12, Injured Building Rocket

CHICAGO (UP) — A 12-year-old boy was hospitalized today with injuries suffered when a rocket he tried to assemble exploded.

Lawrence Mazikowski suffered severe cuts from the eight-inch-long cylinder. The explosion occurred Thursday in the boy's kitchen where he had undertaken to finish building the rocket his brother Norman, 18, had started.

The bleeding boy called an operator who called the police and fire departments. Authorities took him to Lutheran Deaconess Hospital.

Ledbetter Rites Held at Shawneetown

The funeral of Victor "Vic" Ledbetter, 57, former resident of Shawneetown who died in Chicago, Tuesday, was held at 2 p. m. today in the Wright funeral chapel in Shawneetown. Burial was in the West Wood cemetery.

Mr. Ledbetter is survived by his wife, Hazel, and his brothers, Eugene Ledbetter, Evansville, Ind., and Clyde Ledbetter, East St. Louis.

Pilot Praised For Landing Plane Before Explosion

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Pilot R. E. Schumacker was praised today for a "helluva" fine job in landing a twin-engine Western Air Lines plane which exploded shortly after the 21 persons aboard escaped in a rock-studded desert wash.

The veteran pilot battled 40 to 50-mile-an-hour crosswinds to get the Convair down in a dry wash Thursday afternoon five miles north of here.

The plane faltered seconds after takeoff from the Palm Springs Airport on a flight to San Diego Calif. Witnesses said the craft began to shudder "a few hundred feet" in the air.

"This pilot did one hell of a fine job of putting the ship down in the rugged area," 'chief of police August Kettman said. He was one of the first to reach the scene near U. S. Highway 99.

Elmer Hooten Rites Sunday

The funeral of Elmer Hooten, 59, New York Central railroad worker who died Wednesday, will be held in the Church of God on Land street, at 2 p. m. Sunday. Burial will be in the Sunset Gardens cemetery.

The body will lie in state at the family home, 25 West Midkiff street, Harrisburg, until the funeral and is in the care of the Gibbons funeral hor

Silas Crunk, Penitentiary Guard, Former Ridgway Resident, Dies

Silas Crunk, formerly of Ridgway and more recently a guard at the Southern Illinois Penitentiary at Chester, died at 3 p. m. today in the Murphysboro hospital. The body has been returned to Chester and funeral plans have not been completed.

Phillips Nominated For Shawneetown Postmaster Post

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Eisenhower yesterday nominated Angus Keith Phillips for postmaster of Shawneetown, Ill. Phillips replaces Basil Bennett, retired. Phillips at present is acting postmaster.

Randall D. Page was nominated for postmaster of Sesser, Ill.

Production Off, 21 Mine Accident Deaths in 1957

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — The output of Illinois coal was down to 46,682,889 tons in 1957, compared with 47,804,040 tons in the previous year, the Mines and Minerals Department reported Thursday.

Also, the department said, there were 21 deaths caused by mine accidents in 1957, compared with 20 in 1956. The mines employed a total of 12,781 miners in 34 coal producing counties in the state during 1957.

The department said the 1957 production included 44,532,214 tons produced by mines for shipment. The remainder was produced by mines for local sales.

A total of 26,767,434 tons were produced by machine mining, 19,883,787 tons from strip mining and 31,476 tons by hand mining. This compared to 1953 figures of 29,132,106 tons by machine, 16,680,336 by stripping and 153,672 tons mined by hand.

Hand-loaded tonnage in 1957 totaled only 111,329 the department said, compared with 340,506 tons hand-loaded in 1953.

Only 79 mules were being used in the state in 1957 to haul coal from mine faces, compared with 244 mules in use in 1953.

The department said the number of non-fatal injuries in the mines in 1957 totaled 542, compared with 920 in 1953.

A tornado Feb. 9, 1884 roared from southern Illinois to the Gulf of Mexico, killing 800 persons.

Vicious Moscow Propaganda Hits Summit Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vicious anti-American propaganda coming from Moscow on the Tunisian crisis has struck a hard blow at U. S. hopes for a "profitable" East-West summit conference, officials said today.

Soviet charges that the United States "master - minded" the French air attack on a Tunisian village, these officials said, have strengthened the position of policy makers who doubt the Russians sincerely want to ease East-West tensions.

President Eisenhower will have a chance soon to make this point when he replies to Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's latest letter on a possible meeting of East-West government heads. The President's letter is slated to be sent to North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries for review "very soon."

Seldom has the State Department given vent publicly to such anger as it did Thursday over charges printed in the Soviet Communist newspaper Pravda. Pravda claimed the United States was behind the attack on the village of Sakiet-Sidi-Youseff.

The State Department labelled the charges "lies" and "outrageous allegations." A spokesman said the accusations "do not square" with the words of peace and friendship being spread around Wasnington by the new Soviet ambassador, Mikhail A Menshikov.

Menshikov said he hadn't heard of either the Pravda charges or the State Department statement.

Matter of FACT

All whales are mammals, perfectly adapted to living in the water and quite helpless on shore. There are many important differences between aquatic mammals, such as the whale, and fishes. For example, baby whales are born alive, rather than being hatched from an egg. The young whales are fed on mothers' milk. They have no gills but breathe air through their lungs.

INDOOR BASEBALL WORK—First Baseman Frank Torre, left, and Pitcher Bob Trowbridge of the Braves keep in shape by working out regularly in a Milwaukee gymnasium.

ALL PRIME BEEF—Paul Anderson, right, the Taccoa, Ga., weight lifting champ, decided picking up things doesn't help keep his larder full so he went into professional wrestling. Here he tries his strength against Leo Nomellini, San Francisco 49er tackle who plies the grunt-and-groan circuit in off-season.

Too Cold in Florida for Cardinals, Yankees to Conduct Rookie Workouts

By TIM MORIARTY
United Press Sports Writer

Notice to all baseball players preparing to head south for spring training: You'd better pack some "woolies" and hand-warmers.

It was so cold at the St. Louis Cardinals' rookie camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., Thursday, that Manager Fred Hutchinson conducted a morning workout on the local YMCA basketball court. The afternoon drill was held at Al Lang Field, although the temperature was in the low 40's.

Didn't Even Try

The New York Yankees, who also are conducting a rookie camp at St. Petersburg, didn't even attempt to schedule a workout because of the blustery weather. Manager Casey Stengel gave his 36-man advance group the day off.

"They oughta give this weather back to the Eskimos," said Ole Case, a Californian by adoption.

Lee MacPhail, assistant general manager of the Yankees, showed up at St. Pete in an overcoat to conduct further salary talks with Mickey Mantle but learned that the star outfielder had gone to Miami to play in the baseball players golf tournament.

MacPhail now must wait until Monday to try to reach an agreement with Mantle, who reportedly is seeking a pay boost to $75,000 this year.

Meanwhile, back on the Yankees' northern ranch it was announced that catcher-outfielder Elston Howard had signed his new contract for $15,000. He played 71 games in left field last year but said, "I hope to spend most of my time catching this year."

Three Sign With Redlegs

The Cincinnati Redlegs revealed that center fielder Gus Bell and rookie southpaws Charley Rabe and Dave Skaugstad had come to terms, leaving only six teammates unsigned.

The Detroit Tigers signed four players—Frank Bolling, Tom Yewcic, Gus Zernial and Joe Presko—and now have 28 of their 39 men under contract.

Seattle Star Opens Up Biggest Lead in Scoring

By United Press

Seattle's Elgin Baylor opened up his biggest lead of the season today in his three-cornered race with Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson and Kansas' Wilt Chamberlain for the national college basketball scoring title.

The 6-6 Seattle star pumped in 47 points Thursday night in a 99-69 triumph over Regis to raise his point-per-game-average to 34.42—compared to Robertson's 33.32 and Chamberlain's 31.07.

The lead, longest Baylor has had, virtually assures him of the title since he will play three of his five remaining games against small colleges while Robertson and Chamberlain are playing against conference "toughies."

Baylor made 15 field goals and canned 17 of 19 free throws in his latest scoring orgy. Seattle led all the way against out-manned Regis, and had a 67-37 halftime spread.

Despite a relatively easy schedule, Seattle is expected to be invited to the National Invitational Tournament in New York City.

Eighth-ranked Maryland moved to within a half game of first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference with a 72-54 win over Clemson while North Carolina downed Wake Forest, 60-57.

In other games, South Carolina topped Fort Valley, 91-85; Holy Cross beat the Quantico Marines 71-65; St. John's of New York topped Manhattan, 77-66, and Denver downed Wyoming, 77-60.

Only Two Games Separate Teams In Big 10 Race

CHICAGO (AP)—The unpredictable Big Ten Conference race, tightly wrapped from top to bottom, gets ready for another weekend scramble. Either Michigan State or Indiana, now deadlocked, can grab the top spot alone.

The Spartans and Hoosiers, with 5-3 marks, are only a half-game ahead of second place Michigan (4-3), and two games ahead of last place Illinois and Wisconsin, both 3-5.

A Michigan State win at home against Illinois in a regionally televised Saturday afternoon affair would give the Spartans sole possession of first place over idle Indiana.

A Michigan victory at Ohio State would zoom the Wolverines into a first place deadlock with Indiana should the Spartans bow.

Other action finds Northwestern at Minnesota, and Purdue at Wisconsin.

Behind Michigan in the standings is Purdue, 5-4; Ohio State, 5-5, and Iowa, 4-4. Northwestern and Minnesota are tied with 4-5 records and cellar dwellers Wisconsin and Illinois are knotted at 3-5.

Big Archie Dees continues to hold down the top bracket in the scoring race, pounding the nets for a 24.9 pace, to lead Don Ohl of Illinois, a 23.3 marksman.

Third place honors belong to Minnesota's George Kline, who sports a 22.2 average. Dave Gunther of Iowa is fourth with a 21.5 average and Pete Tillotson of Michigan fifth with a 20.5.

Biggest jump in the point making department was made by Spartans Johnny Green and Larry Hedden, who bounced to 17.4 and 17.3 aevrages respectively.

Ted Husing Loses Job Received in Comeback Attempt

NEW YORK (AP) — Ted Husing famed as a radio sports announcer for nearly 20 years, has lost his job he won last August in a comeback attempt following brain surgery.

A Columbia Broadcasting System spokesman said Wednesday the network decided reluctantly not to renew Husing's $150-a-week contract because of the voice quality of test recordings.

Husing is in Pasadena, Calif., convalescing from removal of a brain tumor which nearly blinded and temporarily paralyzed him in 1954. He also lost his voice for a time.

The announcer won fame and popularity with CBS as a sports announcer from 1927 to 1946. He left sports to become a disc jockey. His return to CBS last August was his first job since his 1954 operation.

Cage Regionals in Area March 4-7

The Illinois High School association has announced dates on which regionals will be played and those at Eldorado, West Frankfort and Marion in this area will be on March 4, 5, 6 and 7.

That means that there will be two opening round games on both March 4 and March 5, two semifinal games March 6 and the final contest March 7.

A number are having five-night tourneys so that single semifinal games can be played on the third and fourth nights.
